Declare 15-Day Truce In Shipping Strike

SHIPOWNERS, UNION TO SEEK PEACE

Contract Differences Will Be Discussed at Series of Armistice Parleys

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Peace was assured for 15 days on Pacific coast waterfronts when representatives of maritime unions today accepted terms of a truce proposed by western shipowners.

Climaxing a day and night of hectic conferences directed by Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, the union leaders staved off a threatened coast-wide shipping tie-up by agreeing to the extension of working contracts which would have expired at midnight.

During the armistice period, the unions and employers will continue to negotiate contract differences.

If, by Oct. 15, grievances still remain unsettled, the unions must agree to arbitration or relations with the employers will be broken off completely.

Announcement of acceptance of the truce at 12:20 a. m.—20 minutes after 1334 agreements drawn up at conclusion of the San Francisco general strike were to have been abandoned and the west coast paralyzed by a stoppage of work which might have extended from Seattle to San Diego.

The shipowners, through a spokesman, Lynn Fox, said:

"We afforded extension of 15 days in the sincere hope that the offer would pave the way for permanent and peaceful settlement of our waterfront disputes.

"Now that the unions have accepted our offer we shall exert every effort to create a peaceful settlement in cooperation with the government and the newly created maritime commission."

Harry Bridges, Pacific coast district president of the International Longshoremen's association and a key figure in the dispute, spoke of the extension of 15 days in the sincere hope that the offer would pave the way for permanent and peaceful settlement of our waterfront disputes.

"Death, coming in the early morning hours, was from natural causes.

Mr. Garstang, who had lived in this city for 24 years, was 63 years of age and lived at 617 North Ross street. He was born in Preston, England.

He was a teacher of music, and taught in Santa Ana schools for the past 20 years. He was a member of Jubilee Masonic Lodge No. 604. During all his life here he had been prominent in church, service club and fraternal life of the city.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the Winbiger Mortuary, 609 North Main street, tomorrow at 2 p. m. with private cremation to follow at Fairhaven cemetery. The Masonic lodge will stage funeral rites at the close of the services in the mortuary. Pall-bearers are being chosen from among lodge members.

Not long ago Dick Garstang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garstang, died as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Alice Garstang; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Murphy of Honolulu and Miss Dorothy Garstang of Santa Ana; a brother, Edward Garstang, of Long Beach, and three sisters, Mrs. Daniel Gee, of Massachusetts, Mrs. C. L. Nichols, of San Diego, and Mrs. Gordon C. Gray, of Edmonton, Canada.

'RED' LEADER GIVEN FREEDOM

TERRIE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 1.—(UP)—Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, thrown in jail yesterday to forestall a Communist rally, was released today at 8:45 a. m., 25 hours and 15 minutes after his arrest.

In a jail cell where he spent the night with 10 other prisoners, Browder called upon the nation to witness his imprisonment as evidence of the "rise of Fascism."

He was arrested by Police Chief James Yates, accompanied by a group of American Legion members and members of the law and order league. Yates and members of these organizations attempted to prevent Browder's Attorney David Bentall, from reading his client's speech over a local radio station last night.

The Communist party, from its headquarters in New York, protested to President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Cummings. Norman Thomas, presidential candidate of the Socialist party, protested to Mr. Roosevelt from San Francisco. The American National League of New York telegraphed its congratulations to Police Chief Yates.

Browder was the first presidential candidate to see the inside of a jail since Eugene Debs, the candidate of the Socialist party, was incarcerated during the World War.

Bentall, behind the locked door of a studio of the local radio station, followed his former friend and political follower, President Roosevelt, on the Airways.

HEARST AGAIN ATTACKS FOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Publisher William Randolph Hearst replied to President Roosevelt's speech today. He reiterated the charges of his newspapers that the president receives communist support and attacked the administration's new currency agreement with France and Great Britain.

President Roosevelt was replying chiefly to Hearst attacks at Syracuse Tuesday night when he said the communist issue was a "red herring" and formally repudiated communist support. Hearst's reply appeared today as an editorial in all Hearst newspapers.

"Mr. Roosevelt declares that he is not a communist," Hearst said, "but the communists say he is one. The communist ought to know. Every cow knows its own calf."

Stalin hails him, and asks the communists to support him.

"Mr. Roosevelt declares that he is not a communist, but what about his communist entourage?"

"They did not grow where he is—clinging round about him like the ivy green. They were planted where they are—planted and nurtured with fat jobs watered with public funds—because Mr. Roosevelt wanted that kind of rank growth about him."

Fays F. D. R. Aides

Hearst included in this category Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law professor and administration advisor; Donald Richberg, former NRA administrator; Rexford G. Tugwell, rural resettlement administrator; Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; and Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

"And what about Mr. Roosevelt himself, who promotes continually and consistently demoralizing class distinctions and class division and class warfare?"

SEEK RECORDS OF BURIED TREASURE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Search for the buried treasure of Jeff Casserly, aged prospector, switched from the hills of the Mother Lode to the musty files of California banks today as his heirs hoped further definite evidence as to its location.

A day-long search in the hills by a group of treasure hunters, including Jean Kuster, 16, of San Francisco, old Jeff's grand-daughter, proved fruitless. Four years ago Jeff had pointed out the location to her, but she was unable to find it.

The executors of his estate, the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust Co., wired California banks in the belief a map, giving explicit instructions as to where the treasure is buried, might be in a safe deposit box held by Casserly. A $5000 gold nugget had been found previously in a safe deposit box registered in his name in a Sacramento bank.

ALFRED SMITH HITS NEW DEAL TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Alfred E. Smith makes his first speech of the presidential campaign to the independent coalition of American women and a National radio audience tonight.

His friends said it would be "one of the strongest indictments of the present administration that has been heard in this political campaign."

Smith will speak for 45 minutes beginning at 9:30 from Carnegie Hall, following his former friend and political follower, President Roosevelt, on the Airways.

JONES LAUDS MILES NORTON IN LIONS TALK

Coach Howard Jones, U. S. C.'s "head man," today explained his two-team system inaugurated this year as being based on the old theory that competition always provides better results. Coach Jones was the speaker at the noon meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club at Green Cat cafe.

"This two-team system, which apparently worked out in last Saturday's game, may not be the desirable system in all games," Coach Jones said. "If the going gets too tough, it may be necessary to mix the players around a little bit. The whole idea is this: sophomores on the bench watch the seniors on the playing field; the sophomores take the field later, determined to outdo the seniors. If the sophomores roll up a few touchdowns, then the seniors decide they aren't going to be outdone by a bunch of greenhorns, and do their best to show up the sophomores."

In his address, Coach Jones expressed the belief that Santa Ana's Miles Norton will develop into one of the most valuable players on the team. He was particularly impressed with his work in last week's game. Davie Davis, he said, is by far the best passer developed at U. S. C. since the days of Russ Saunders, and is really a triple threat man of the most dangerous caliber to opposing teams.

Coach Jones was introduced today by Program Chairman C. W. Harrison, whose son, J. Wayne Harrison, is a graduate of U. S. C. The musical program was provided by an orchestra from the Federal Music projects.

FRENCH BANK ADVANCES CASH

transactions in London and New York."

He said the first francs were made available yesterday when the Bank of France authorized the Federal Reserve bank of New York to make spot francs available. The same thing was being carried out today, he said.

Morgenthau said when the Bourse reopens the regular channels for obtaining francs will again be available.

"It was the sensible and practical thing to do," Morgenthau continued. "It prevented business men, who were worried, from getting panicky."

Morgenthau said the action was part of the agreement to prevent violent swings in the French, British and American currencies.

He reiterated no definite understanding was contained in the "gentlemen's agreement" fixing definite ratios of exchange for the franc, pound and dollar.

Morgenthau said that under the agreement, the British could use the $1,500,000,000 equalization fund for creating dollar balances in this country.

Questioned whether American gold would be made available to them, the secretary replied: "I have no comment."

RUSH ASSEMBLY OF U.S. BOMBING PLANE

SEATTLE, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Boeing Aircraft Co. mechanics today rushed assembly of the first of 13 giant 16-ton bombing planes being built for the United States army.

To be the world's fastest and longest range bomber, the plane has a 105-foot wingspan, is 70 feet long and 35 feet high.

Test flights will be made here when wing sections are completed and instruments on the four engines checked. The ship will be flown to Wright Field, Dayton, O., for final tests. It was there last year that a similar but smaller bomber crashed fatally.

The army hopes to be able to use the new planes to strengthen defenses in Alaska, Panama and Hawaii. Able to fly non-stop to drop 2,000 pounds of bombs on a target 1,500 miles away and return to their base, the planes will also be equipped with effective defense armament.

The senate finance committee, to which the bill was referred again by the senate just after it convened today, adopted a compromise text giving Blum broader powers to deal with a rise in prices should one result from devaluation.

The chamber moved toward a compromise by revising the "social riders" which have been the bone of contention between the two houses, and completely eliminating some of the clauses objected to by the senate. They will be discussed later after the present emergency has passed.

The chamber, resuming consideration of the bill as adopted by the senate, unanimously restored to the war veterans the 13 per cent pension cut which they have undergone.

Premier Leon Blum announced in the chamber he would leave for the league meeting at Geneva tonight, indicating any danger of a governmental crisis had been averted.

ROBINSON RETURNS TO TROBABE LINEUP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Coach Hobbs Adams' University of Southern California freshmen footballers, 32 strong, leave tomorrow for Palo Alto where they meet the highly rated Stanford yearlings Saturday.

The Trobabs started the season with a bang last week end, burying Riverside, defending Southern California Jaycee champions, under a 47-0 score. In order to insure better ball-carrying, Adams plans to use Bill Sangster and Doyle Nave, his best quarterbacks, in the line-up at the same time. Nave will remain at quarter, while Sangster has been switched to fullback.

Handy-man of the S. C. frosh is Joe Shell, former Hoover High (San Diego) star. Shell began the season as a left half, but because of an injury to Center Jack Robinson, of Santa Ana, who returns to the lineup this week, he played the pivot position against Riverside. Now Shell has been moved to right half for the Indian frosh game because of injuries to the first and second string halves.

HEARST AGAINST FRANCO TAKES ATTACKS FDR OVER CONTROL

"Subordination of the provident to the improvident, and of the competent to the incompetent, of the reverent to the sacrilegious, of the conservative to the criminal, and of all the higher classes to the fury and blood-lust of the lowest class, is the very essence of the communistic class conflict which Karl Marx teaches and Mr. Tugwell and Mr. Richberg and Dr. Frankfurter and Mr. Roosevelt preach."

Hearst saw the currency agreement as a use of the American stabilization fund to stabilize the French franc. France, he said, was communistic.

"How far is Mr. Roosevelt going to aid his fellow communists?" he asked. "Why should we make sacrifices to aid France? . . . She has repudiated her debt to us, in fact, she led the repudiationists, conceived and created repudiation."

MORGENTHAU ANSWERS ATTACK BY HEARST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today charged publisher William Randolph Hearst with using "incorrect" facts in an editorial criticizing the administration.

Angered by a signed editorial in Hearst's newspapers today criticizing President Roosevelt and his policies including the new Tri-Nation monetary agreement, Morgenthau exclaimed:

"I read what he said. He has his facts incorrect when he asks what right have we to lend money to France."

"We have not loaned any money to France."

The statement which drew Morgenthaus ire was an assertion by the publisher that the tri-power currency agreement provided that the American stabilization fund would be used to aid the French franc. He charged the agreement amounted, in fact, to a loan to France in violation of the Johnson Act prohibiting loans to countries which have repudiated war debts.

"How far is Mr. Roosevelt going to aid his fellow Communists?" Hearst asked. "Why should we make sacrifices to aid France?"

POLICE SEARCHING FOR MISSING BOYS

BERKLEY, Cal., Oct. 1.—(UP)—Authorities throughout California, Oregon, Washington and Nevada were asked today to join in a widespread search for two Berkley boys who disappeared on the Redwood highway, north of Ukiah, Cal., after leaving their homes September 22 on a hunting trip.

The boys are Stanley Ellis, 14, son of Harold Ellis of the University of California News Bureau, and George McKie, 15, son of William McKie, Berkeley business man.

Berkeley police said the boys, both members of Boy Scout Troop 29, Berkley, had been traced through San Rafael, Cal., up the Redwood highway to Calipella, six miles north of Ukiah, where they are believed to have boarded a northbound truck.

FOUR DIVORCE SUITS FILED HERE TODAY

Four divorce suits were on file today in superior court, as three wives and a husband moved to cast off matrimonial shackles.

Mrs. Corinne E. Eldridge charged Clarence A. Eldredge, Laguna Beach sheet metal shop owner, with cruelty. He is enamored of another woman, she claims.

Mrs. Jean E. Alexander charged cruelty against Milburn R. Alexander, service station manager.

Mrs. Evelyn O'Toole likewise based her suit against Ralph O'Toole on charges of cruelty.

Nick Padilla made the same charge in suing Lupe Padilla.

MAY SEEK GREATER EMPLOYMENT FUND

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 1.—(UP)—Increased appropriations for maintenance of federal-state employment offices may be sought from the legislature next year in order to permit California to take full advantage of federal funds advanced for that purpose, officials of the employment division said.

The state has not received its full allotment of federal funds because it has not had sufficient money to match the amount available. An increased appropriation will depend upon Gov. Frank F. Merriam's attitude toward a larger budget and the legislature's reaction to a request for more money.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

Since God never respects Himself, there is no God in the world exactly like you.

This justifies your assumption that your difficulties and sorrows are unique and unprecedented and your opinion that no other person can quite understand what you suffer nor give you much help.

Inevitably associated with the truth is the marvellous fact that God equipped you for supreme attainment. In communion with Him you are to do for yourself what others could not do.

PETITE BRUNET ARRESTED IN MONTEBELLO MAY BE PHANTOM BURGLAR WHO OPERATED HERE

Marie Brown Bevier, 31, petite brunet gun carrying burglar, arrested in Montebello last night, may be Santa Ana's phantom burglar, according to a theory advanced by Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford today. The attractive brunet, described as five feet tall, weighing about 95 pounds, was arrested last night making her exit from a Montebello home.

According to Wolford, who is in Montebello today trying to connect her with Santa Ana burglaries, she had a .38 caliber revolver, a cold chisel and numerous pieces of jewelry in her possession at the time of her arrest. Wolford, who spent several hours quizzing Miss Bevier at Montebello police headquarters last night, expressed the belief that at least two men have been working with the young woman on burglaries throughout the Southland.

Miss Bevier gave her address as 211 Blake avenue, Los Angeles. Police, in searching the place, found several articles of jewelry and other personal effects, believed obtained in burglaries. Santa Ana victims of the phantom burglar will be queried, in an attempt to make identification of some of the loot recovered.

SEEKS REMOVAL OF BROTHER IN LAW AS SPOUSE'S GUARDIAN

Having recently been defeated in his efforts to remove her brother-in-law, James R. Keene, as guardian of the estate of her husband, Arthur G. Keene, Mrs. Florence E. Keene of Olinda today petitioned superior court to remove him as guardian of her husband's person.

That her husband is receiving improper food, medicine and care in the sanitarium where he has been staying while afflicted with a "nervous breakdown," and that his rest is disturbed by several insane persons also inmates of the sanitarium, is charged by Mrs. Keene, who says the guardian refuses to remove her husband from the sanitarium.

She has been refused permission to see her husband, Mrs. Keene further charges.

She asks her own appointment as guardian, because she once nursed her husband through a similar illness, and can give him "wifely care and affection."

James Keene, the brother-in-law, in the county, that it would not be advisable at the present time to push a sky-line drive which would cost a million and half dollars, in view of the pressing necessity of other issues, including solving of the water problem.

The estimate of a million and a half dollars cost for the road was made by Guerdon Ellis, forest supervisor of the Cleveland National forest, who spoke at a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county this morning. Ellis, however, had in mind a sky-line drive along the crest of the Santa Ana mountains, and not the 10-mile road to Saddleback which Shaw's plan advocates, it was stated.

Considerable enthusiasm regarding benefits to the county of the proposed road was shown by many speakers at the chamber meeting. It was pointed out that the vantage point offered on top of Saddleback provides magnificent scenery.

G.O.P. Arguments Convert Women to Roosevelt Cause

Perhaps the best explanation of why millions of Republican women are enlisting under the banner of President Roosevelt was given by Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of the former Republican Governor of New York State.

Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll Because of her active interest in political and civic affairs, Mrs. Whitman was a faithful attendant at classes for Republican speakers. She studied campaign literature; she heard learned speakers tell all the reasons why the electorate should be urged to reject the candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Whitman came away from these meetings convinced—convinced that the most necessary thing before this country is the reelection of President Roosevelt. And she arrived at that conclusion after listening faithfully to the strongest possible case which could be presented against his policies by Republican speakers.

G.O.P. CONVERTED HER

But Mrs. Whitman saw through the fundamental weakness of the Republican position. She realized that no matter how much the G.O.P. spokesmen criticized what had been done, THE FACT REMAINED THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S POLICIES ARE VITALLY NECESSARY AND MUST BE RETAINED. Said Mrs. Whitman:

"My change of political beliefs was crystallized by joining a class for public speaking at the Women's Republican Club, where the literature handed me attacking the administration and on which I was supposed to base my speeches turned me definitely for Mr. Roosevelt. I found I could not speak against him."

"There may be criticisms of the methods employed in the working out of his policies, but there can be none of the policies themselves. It seems to me this country has been waiting for them for a long time and I think we had better stick by them until they are made to work in good order."

MRS. NICOLL ALSO

Another Republican woman to announce her support of the Roosevelt cause is Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, wife of the former State Senator Nicoll of New York. She said:

"I believe in the capitalistic system and I hope to see it survive, but I believe it has a better chance of survival under a policy which recognizes its faults and seeks to correct its abuses than under a policy of laissez faire."

Time and again this column has called attention to the fact that the most significant trend in this campaign is the growing army of Republican women who are supporting President Roosevelt. They realize he is the one man who can keep us out of war. They realize also that but for his great social welfare activities of the past few years tragedy might have overtaken the younger generations in this country.

IMPRESSIVE LIST

The list now includes Miss Grace Abbott, head of the Children's Bureau in Mr. Hoover's Administration, and Miss Mary Wooley, who represented the Hoover Administration at Geneva. The list includes Mrs. Curtis Bok Jr. and Dr. Valerie H. Parker, the latter a former member of the Republican National Committee.

These women are not supporting President Roosevelt from selfish motives. Their support springs from a profound conviction that his reelection is most necessary for the peace and prosperity of this country and the world.

FENCERS FLASH COURSE IN JOB FOILS AS YMCA FINDING OPENS CLASS STARTED AT "Y" TONIGHT

With 19 fencers flashing their foils, Claire Hanson's class in fencing got off to a fine start at the Y.M.C.A. last night as this new feature of the Y's leisure time program began its course. Others who have announced their intention of entering the class will bring the enrollment up to 25, and these may start in with the second session on next Wednesday evening. Both men and women were present in about equal numbers.

At the same time, the Y class in chairmanship and public speech started with 26 men and women enrolled. Additional members will join the class later. R. C. Smedley, who has the course in charge, expressed optimistic hopes for the success of the class, which, he stated, is one of the most representative and able groups of the sort which he has ever handled. This class will meet regularly on Wednesday evenings at seven o'clock.

Democrats Incline Away From F.D.R.; Many Desert Him

This campaign is more than a contest between Republicans and New Dealers. It is a contest between New Dealers and people who are convinced that President Roosevelt's policies are disastrously unwise.

Some of the most prominent opponents of the New Deal are Democrats who put their love of country above party loyalty, and their interest in public welfare above their own political fortunes.

Let us quote what some Democrats, in the New Deal and out, have said about the Roosevelt Administration's moves to usurp power, to impose unbearable tax burdens upon the people, to stifle individual enterprise, and to make itself a governing machine which shall be free from all responsibility to the public:

DEMOCRACY ENDANGERED

At the time when Congress was notified of President Roosevelt's intention to set up the AAA, Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina, said:

"I never thought we would come to the time when we would let a President of the United States lay a tax upon the American people, but here we are asked to give the power to the Secretary of Agriculture, who never received a vote in his life, and will never have to answer to the people. I say to Senators that this is the beginning of the end of representative government in the United States."

The AAA paid more than one billion, five hundred million dollars of the public's money to stop the production of wheat, corn, cotton, sugar and tobacco, and for the destruction of hundreds of thousands of hogs. As a result, the prices of food, clothing and other necessities have gone up, and it has become necessary to import large quantities of farm products, foreigners getting the benefits of the higher prices American consumers are compelled to pay.

BUYING PUBLIC OPINION

Referring to the Roosevelt Administration's plans to prevent itself from being voted out of office, Senator Harry F. Bird, Democrat, of Virginia, said in a radio speech a little over a year ago:

"Never in our history have public funds been so lavishly spent to control the opinions of our people as now. Never have so many highly paid publicity agents been in the employ of our Government."

Since then the spending of public funds to control the opinions of the people has been increasing at terrific speed. The number of paid publicity agents employed by the New Deal Administration has been multiplied many times. WPA workers are brought into the service of the Administration as publicity agents.

In March, 1935, Senator Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland, said:

"This money that it is proposed to spend for soil erosion and for one thing and another is not going to reach into those large reservoirs of unemployment. It will result in a national scandal. We shall be ashamed of it."

On June 15th, 1936, James A. Reed, former Democratic Senator from Missouri, said:

"Our President is out making speeches about individual liberty and the Constitution, both of which he has been destroying by his acts in the White House."

MORE DEMOCRATIC THRUSTS

On April 1, 1936, Senator Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona, said in a speech in the United States Senate:

"We are wandering far from the principles which promote upstanding men . . . Men must support the Government, not the Government support them. We must soon or late reverse our steps, we must retrace them, if we are to continue to have a government."

Lewis W. Douglas, former Director of the Budget in the New Deal Administration, was quoted in the New York Times as follows:

"No other conclusion is possible than that the Administration at Washington is an irresponsible, spending government, its spending conducted by those who have no knowledge of how wealth is produced, and perhaps care less. No living man possibly Mr. Roosevelt's lifelong freedom from the necessity of exercising care in his spending is accountable for his carelessness with the public's money. That is one reason why many members of his own party are leaving him."

BOURBONS OF COUNTY PLAN BIG BARBECUE

More than one hundred members of the Democratic Campaign Committee and the County Democratic Central Committee met at the Orange County Democratic Headquarters, 508 North Broadway, last night.

The meeting was opened by B.Z. McKinney, chairman of the County Democratic Central Committee, who told of plans of a county-wide barbecue sponsored by the Central Committee to be held at Orange County park on Saturday, October 17. He then turned the meeting over to H. C. Head, manager of the County Campaign committee. Reports were given as to the 10 headquarters that have been opened in Orange county and also as to the six rallies to be held in the various cities of the county beginning with the Fullerton rally to be held October 14 in the Fullerton High school auditorium.

The general gymnasium class for men and women, conducted by Miss Elsie Bell Hurd, assisted by J. Arthur Anderson, will have the gymnasium floor tonight for organization, exercises, games and general recreational purposes. Like all the other classes this is open to the public, without charge. The women's swimming classes will meet for their second session, with beginners coming at seven and advanced swimmers at eight o'clock.

PLAN TO GAIN BANK CONTROL FAILS THROUGH

That a plan, whereby the Bank of America would gain control of the First National Bank in Santa Ana, had collapsed was revealed today when officials of the bank announced that shareholders of nearly two-thirds of the common stock had signed an agreement giving assurance that the bank will remain an independent institution.

"Therefore, in fairness to them I offer the options which I now hold to officials of the bank at $145 a share, provided they contact me and accept this offer on or before Saturday, October 3, 1936 at 12 o'clock noon.

"And furthermore, if the bank officials are willing to accept this offer and will buy at $145 a share all the options I hold from stockholders who wish to sell, I will release the options I hold from any stockholders who have since changed their minds and who now do not want to sell.

"But if officials of the bank do not accept this offer, I do not see where anyone can justly criticize me if I dispose of the stock elsewhere.

"In securing these options, I was assisted by Mr. A. J. Crookshank, who left yesterday on a trip. Before he left I told him about this proposed offer, and he acquiesced with me completely."

HORSES ATTACK AUTOS

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (UPI) —

Three stray horses apparently sought to dispute automobile usurpation of the equine right to the highway here recently when in a few minutes they caused damage of four machines and injury of a passenger. One of the animals, knocked down by a car, dented the side of a passing machine with its kicks.

Following is the letter received by the Register and signed by F. E. Farnsworth, former officer in the old First National Bank, issued a statement explaining his actions in attempting to purchase stock and offered to sell his options, which he now holds, to officials of the bank at $145 a share. Farnsworth made a proviso that the bank officials contact him and accept the offer on or before 12 o'clock noon on Saturday of this week.

Officials at the bank this morning declared that holders of more than 3000 shares of 5000 shares of common stock had assured officials that they would not sell without first giving the board of directors an opportunity to either purchase or find a purchaser favorable to the board.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Inter-national statesmen, rejoicing over their Anglo-French-American mon-ey understanding, are not fool-ing themselves as much as their carefully written public haile-ments may dictate.

They are still hailing the agree-ment as a first step toward a re-vival of world markets, toward a world economic conference, you need only consult a monetary expert, be he Republican, Democratic or Lem-istic.

First, there is the triplicate question of Germany, Italy and Japan. They cannot stabilize. They haven't anything to stabilize. Their financial position is so uncertain, and their currency position is so weak that they cannot safely discuss the matter in public. Furthermore, many experts wonder whether they will ever be in a supportable international mon-etary position if they continue to waste what resources they have on armament and on unprofitable conquests over Ethiopia, which bring no return.

Their currency is simply in no position to be adjusted even to Lemke's, and a few miracles will be required to improve it.

As far as the big three powers are concerned, England and the U. S. will probably want to wait until the franc wants to have a natural level before broaching the subject of real stabilization between them. This will require six months or a year or more.

In the meantime, no one should consider the gentlemen's agree-ment as anything more than an evidence of good feeling, a promise among the three nations to do what they should do anyway without a promise, a sensible, helpful working arrangement to meet a temporary condition.

FOR THE BEST

Military men have been doubt-ing that the Spanish government would try to hold Madrid after the rebels cut the rail line in the vicinity of Toledo. They figured the Madrid crew would hit the trail for a Mediterranean escape by auto and airplane, leaving the populae to settle with the rebels as best they can.

There will be one marked dif-ference. American tourist travel will be resumed. It was very low during the period of distorted currency relations. The deviated franc will enable American tourists to get almost one-third more for their money. It means Amer-ican women also will buy more establish a firm government. Con-sequently, the international re-action is likely to be quieter than if the loyalists had won. France will frown, but is in no position to do anything about it. And it is no secret inside foreign chan-cellories that Mussolini threatened war if the Spanish government survived.

CLASS

Much wonder has been expressed as to why testy Senator Glass is supporting the New Deal. Mr. Glass has not been quoted much, but he gave his reason in that unreported talk he had with President Roosevelt a few weeks back. Said he to Mr. Roosevelt:

"Mr. President, I am against these New Deals, but if we must have one, I would rather have a first class one than a third class."

FATHER SUCCUMBS

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 1.—Eric Jacobson of the Forest Avenue garage, received a cablegram from Wellington, New Zealand, yesterday, notifying him of the death of his father, Dr. G. Oscar Jacobson. Dr. Jacobson, who was born in Nottingham, England, had a long and active career in medicine and surgery, being a member of the Royal College of Surgeons and Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians, the outstanding and ancient colleges of the British empire. During the World War, Dr. Jacobson was captain in the Royal Army Medical corps, serving throughout the war, after which he moved to New Zealand, where for a number of years, he was medical officer in the State Insurance department. Eight children and numerous grandchildren survive, in addition to Eric Jacobson in Laguna.

Custer, when they were officers in the Union forces. The letter is dated Oct. 4, 1863, and expresses regret because of his (Custer's) inability to visit the Gould home because of war duties.

There will be one marked dif-ference. American tourist travel will be resumed. It was very low during the period of distorted currency relations. The deviated franc will enable American tourists to get almost one-third more for their money. It means Amer-ican women also will buy more

FANS FIND IT IS 5-CENT SERIES IN NAME ONLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—From the will be sadly missed, and so will battery to the Bronx they rooted fervently for what is jocularly called a five-cent world series. Now they have it, and the raucous squawks is on.

It has been professional baseball's traditional privilege to jack world series prices up to more than three times the regular tariff.

As though boosting the cost of a reserved grandstand seat from $1.65 to $5.50 wasn't bad enough, the magnates force the customers to buy them in blocks of three at $16.50 per block. If the paying guest prefers the aristocratic dignity of a box seat, he lays $19.60 on the line for three games at $6.60 per.

Ordinary fans, who support the business all season long, have good reason for bitter complaint in New York this fall. They suffer a double dose of this gouging, although the great majority of them are not in position to stand one.

When they finish paying the National Exhibition company for the three home games of the Giants, they must kick in a like amount to the American League club of New York for three engagements at Yankee stadium.

That is, if they can afford it. In the case of the average addict, he can't, so he reads about his heroes in the newspapers, while ticket speculators clean up on better fixed "now and then," who gladly pay any price just to say "I was there."

Of course, if the ordinary fan cares to stand in line all day, he may be recompensed with a single unreserved seat in a distant corner of the grandstand for $3.30, or a perch in the bleachers for $1.10, provided there are any left when he reaches the window.

That's his reward for turning out week in and week out, especially during the visits of tall-end outfit.

World series prices are too high, and there should be a fairer distribution of tickets, but nothing will be done about it as long as the parks are filled to overflowing.

BUSINESSLIKE BASEBALL

Yankees and Giants will not provide the fight, dash and color of the last two world series, which were among the most exciting ever played.

Both clubs are too business-like—the Yankees in their sheer power and the Giants in their quiet efficiency.

GIANTS GOOD, AND LUCKY TOO

Frisch Says Players Best When Belly Turns Over

JOE DIMAGGIO UNFORTUNATE

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Frankie Frisch picked the Giants to win the first one before it started.

The tough boss of the tough Frisch, a chunk of cut plug the size of your fist in his jaw, his feet draped over the railing, gave his opinion during the Giants' in-field practice.

"They won't miss today," he said as Bartell dove to his left and came up with a hot one. "They've got it. I know those punks, and when they warm up like that you ain't gonna beat 'em."

Someone challenged Frisch's ability to call the turn on a team by the way it acted in practice.

"Okay, but it's your way," he said, "but I've been in a few of these series and give me the nervous, jerky guys. You play better ball when you're scared and your belly's turning over. I don't know why, but you do. Those Giants are in today."

It turned out that Frisch was right, but a right guy never came closer to being wrong. He missed by just one inch, for one inch more to the right and that curving line drive of Joe DiMaggio's in the eighth would have gone zinging on to right field. Frankie Crosetti would have scored the tying run, "Red" Rolfe would have been on second. DiMaggio on first, none would have been down, and "Biscuit Pants" Lou Gehrig would have been up.

That the "Frisco kid's" hit didn't go one more inch to the right, allowing Burgess Whitehead to stab it out of the mud and make it a double play ball, is due to that most fickle of all gals, Sister Luck. She doesn't like DiMaggio—not this year anyway. It was his luck, you will remember, who pulled the strings in the All-Star game earlier in the year, and placed the horns on the goat, instead of the right, but for the fact that a curve slipped off his fingers and gave George Selkirk the kind he can powder—a straight one, chest high.

That was Hubbell's only mistake. Yes, he's only one, for that error they called on him when he handled Rolfe's bunt in the eighth was an error for the scorers, not for Carl. It was a basehit and should have been recorded as such.

Next it will be Hal Schumacher and Manager Joe had to do something to hop it up. So he ran out to second base, threw dirt on Smith and then grabbed his indicator and hurled it into the outfield. The umpire gave him the bum's rush.

Rodgers waited to make sure the Oliers were "in" before he went on his rampage. Then he protested a decision that wasn't even close.

Oilers Given Even Chance

Huntington Beach is given an even chance against the "Cats,"

Another attractive spot is Tustin vs. Garden Grove, at Garden Grove. These schools, separated by the new major and minor league classifications, have always put on dog-eat-dog games.

TEN DON GRIDDERS ON HOSPITAL LIST

That old injury jinx that catches up with every football team at least once a season seems to have picked the Long Beach game here Friday night as time to strike a Santa Ana's Jaysee forces.

A careful check with Coach Bill Cook today showed eight Dons on the hospital list.

Co-Captain John Lehnhardt, key man in the Don backfield, has a badly strained chest from lifting walnut sacks on his father's ranch.

He may or may not be able to play Friday night.

Co-Captain Al Tittensor is also suffering from a slightly sprained ankle.

Ed Stanley, star blocker of the Glendale game last week, is out indefinitely with a "charley-horse."

Hal Mosman received a severe shoulder sprain in last night's scrimmage with the Saints.

Bob Holmes is out with a broken bone vessel in his hip, and may not be able to play Friday.

Dick DeMetz, reserve halfback and running guard, has a badly injured knee.

Lawrence Todd is still out with an infected tooth and Fred Erdhaus is having trouble with a bad knee.

The Dons are in for a tough evening against Long Beach unless some of the boys recuperate before game time, for Coach Harry MacLean of the Vikings is bringing a team here with the vowed intention of getting back at the Dons after many years of disappointment.

Maco will have the help of one Cleo Creecy, star of last year's team, who has been out with injuries since the beginning of the season.

PORTLAND HUMBLING OAKS, TAKES TITLE

OAKLAND, Oct. 1.—(UPI)—The Portland Beavers, surprise team of the Pacific Coast league, held the 1936 Pacific pennant today following its 8-2 win over Portland in the fifth and deciding game of a seven-game playoff series.

The Beavers built up a 5-run lead in the first on Ken Douglas.

They blasted out five safeties before Jimmy Tobin, Oak right-hander stopped the rally.

The consensus was that the invader—19-year-old Pam Barton of London, British champion—will be one of the two to survive today's quarter-finals and the semi-finals tomorrow.

Pam has three stern foes in the upper bracket of the tournament.

Today she faces young Beatrice Barrett, of Minneapolis, a semi-finalist last year. If she triumphs, she must meet the winner of the match between Marlon Miley of Lexington, and Mrs. Carl Donner of Springfield, N. J.

In the lower bracket, out of which will come Saturday's other finalist, are Mrs. W. E. Shepherd of Beverly Hills, Cal., Katherine Hemphill, a youngster from Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City veteran and Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews of Coral Gables, Fla., six-time champion.

Agents have been in the city for the past several days getting things in order for the arrival of the big red and gold wagons, when the first of the three special trains steam into town.

The circus has thrilling features: the outstanding one being Clyde Beatty, the world's most daring wild animal trainer, who will present an all-new display with 40 newly imported lions and tigers.

Another feature will be the Zavatta Troupe of bareback riding stars, who are making their first tour of America as are the Zoeppe Family, sensational equilibrists, newly imported from Spain especially for this season's tour.

Among the human thrill-producers will be the Gretna troupe of high-wire performers. The Gretnas are a family troupe of four brothers and two sisters. Each does a routine on the slender wire in the dome of the huge big-top. But the climax of their breath-taking display is the building of a human pyramid, three high on the wire in the uppermost reaches of the tent—and without a net below should they take a tumble. One of the sisters occupies the top-most position of the human pyramid.

Other thrills are promised by the vast assemblage of aerialists, prominent among them the Flying Harolds and the Peerless Illingtons, Cyse Odell, famous aerial gymnast, Al Powell, the human comet and Esma Wilson, America's famous "pin-wheel" girl are still others who will be seen in the aerial division with the big show this season.

Horses and zebras will appear in big displays with all the rings and stages filled with wild and domestic animal acts at the same time, and in another display 75 horses and riders appear in a colorful equine ballet.

Many Elephants There will be 30 big and little elephants, and 20 of them will perform in the rings at one and the same time. Yes, there are clowns—60 of those funny fellows, and they'll keep the humorous side of the lengthy program awhile with their antics in the rings, around the track, and on the stages. And, too, a real clown band that has no equal.

In all, there are 400 men and women arena stars with the show, and the majority of them will be seen in the mile long street parade show day morning through the principal downtown streets.

Santa Ana Postal Receipts For Quarter Show Gain

LOCAL OFFICE MOVES UP IN FEDERAL LIST

A marked increase in postal receipts at the Santa Ana postoffice for the quarter ended yesterday was reported today by Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith.

Smith announced that receipts for the three-month period just ended topped the previous quarter and also the same quarter for last year. Receipts the quarter just ended on September 30 aggregated $41,028.90 as compared with $39,732.52 the previous quarter this year and $37,218.35 for the quarter last year comparable with the quarter just ended.

At the same time today, it was learned that Santa Ana postoffice moved up two places last year in the postoffice department's "ranking list" of first-class postoffices. The ranking is based on "adjusted" postal receipts.

In the move, Santa Ana passed Greenfield, Mass. This year, on the strength of its 1935 showing, Santa Ana ranks 320th among all first class postoffices of the country. Last year, on the basis of 1934 receipts Santa Ana ranked 322nd. The "adjusted" receipts for Santa Ana were listed as $149,985, as compared with $39,079 for 1934. Receipts are "adjusted" for purposes of fixing postmasters' salaries and determining rankings, by deducting 10 per cent of gross receipts. This was provided for by law at the time the price of stamps was changed from 2 to 3 cents.

"I COULD kick myself when I think how I used to shell out for undershirts. I thought they wouldn't wear and be comfortable, unless I threw the bank-roll for a big loss. But I lost my shirt in the late depression, and had to cut expenses. So I got HANES for 35 and 50 cents. And I never had a better buy in my life! Sure, I lost my shirt. But I've got sense in my head and cents in my pocket today." See your HANES Dealer. P. H. Hanes Knitting Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Republican Women Aid Landon-Knox Campaign

At the request of Mrs. Edith Van De Water of Long Beach, member for California of the Republican National Committee, Republican women of Orange county have formed an organization to work with the Republican County Central Committee for the election of Alf Landon for president of the United States, Frank Knox for vice-president and all candidates on the Republican ticket at the national election on November 3.

Yesterday an organization meeting was held in the office of Howard Irwin, chairman of the Republican central committee in Fullerton, which resulted in the election of Mrs. Frank Rosspaw of Placentia as vice-chairman of the Orange county Republican central committee, in charge of women's activities; Mrs. Edith Cloyes of Santa Ana as co-chairwoman; Mrs. Arthur A. May of Santa Ana, secretary, and Mrs. Evelyn King of Anaheim, treasurer.

Various cities and communities of the county will be represented on the central organization by one or more women, who in turn will be responsible for securing leaders in each precinct in their communities, it being the plan of the group to hold a meeting sometime during the month of October in each precinct in the county.

Inventor of a cleaning apparatus for perforated pipe, Harold C. Yarborough of Brea has just been granted a patent after a wait of three years.

Patent examiners, after completing a comparison of Yarborough's invention with all similar inventions previously patented, ruled that he was entitled to credit for 18 separate ideas.

Yarborough filed his application for the patent on July 3, 1933. He has assigned his patent to the O. P. Yowell Service company, Incorporated.

In the official gazette of the patent office, the Brea man's invention is described as follows:

"An apparatus for cleaning perforated pipe and the like embodying: a pair of packers adapted to engage the interior of said pipe and spaced apart to form a confined space therein; a hollow mandrel supporting said packers and having an opening communicating with said confined space; a working barrel supporting said hollow mandrel and communicating therewith; a plunger in said working barrel adapted, during downward movement, to force a pressure fluid from said working barrel into said confined space; and means for actuating said plunger."

WOMEN SHOW INTEREST IN STORE WINDOW

Have you seen that fascinating Yardley window at the Rankin Drygoods store?

Every Santa Ana woman who spends an hour now and then in downtown shopping this week, has paused to admire the window arrangement, and as a natural consequence, has sought the toiletries department of the store, to meet Miss Ruth Abbott, only recently arrived from the Yardley headquarters in London. Miss Abbott is to be at the Rankin store for the remainder of this week, where she is placing her knowledge of beauty products and treatment at the convenience of Santa Ana women.

Perhaps the lure that the Yardley products exert over femininity in general, may be traced to the memories of childhood. For our mothers and grandmothers always used dried lavender blossoms to freshen and delicately scent the household linens. Whatever the explanation, the fact remains that the name "Yardley" is synonymous in the minds of most women, with desirable toiletries.

Miss Abbott has explained the manner in which this famous British company has branched out, with its new lotions, night creams and innumerable other products, including a "complexion milk" especially for dry skins. This complexion milk has been scientifically compounded for the trans-Atlantic beauty markets, for England's women have little trouble with the dry skins that women of the United States seem to have.

During her week in Santa Ana, Miss Abbott is gaining a new appreciation of the Southland's beauty, and has been especially impressed by the homes here, and by the charm and culture of Santa Ana women, which is a pleasant thing for a city to hear from a stranger in its midst. She is devoting several weeks to appearances in various Southland cities, going from Rankin's to one of the leading stores in Los Angeles. Her consultations and advice are considered especially valuable at this season, when women seek to repair the ravages of summer outings on their hair and complexions in readiness for winter's social season.

Later in the fall, Miss Abbott will go to London for some additional study and research in the home plant of the Yardley company of "Old Bond street."

William R. Hudgens, 119 French street, Santa Ana, yesterday started a 100-day term in the county jail following his conviction in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court on charges of drunk driving. Hudgens, arrested Sept. 11 on a complaint signed by F. W. Lockhart, merchant patrolman, was given the alternative of paying a fine of $200.

The Voice of the Orange Empire, Inc., owner of KVOE, must produce evidence at the hearing to show the equipment changes will not cause broadcasts by KVOE to interfere with the reception of those of any other licensed radio broadcasting station, officials asserted.

REQUEST FOR KVOE CHANGES HEARING SET

The application of radio station KVOE, Santa Ana, to make changes in its broadcasting equipment, was set for hearing today by the Federal Communications commission.

Since granting of the application for equipment changes hinges upon the renewal of the station's license, as well as proof that the changes are technically correct, date for the hearing will not be set until after the question of the license renewal is settled, according to communications officials.

The Voice of the Orange Empire, Inc., owner of KVKE, must produce evidence at the hearing to show the equipment changes will not cause broadcasts by KVKE to interfere with the reception of those of any other licensed radio broadcasting station, officials asserted.

Dahlia Show Is Held By Santa Ana Kiwanis Club

That the dahlia is a native of Mexico, although its development has taken place in Europe since the seventeenth century, was only one of the many interesting things regarding that queen of autumn flowers when Kiwanis club yesterday introduced W. C. Eppler of Bellflower as speaker in connection with Kiwanis dahlia show at the luncheon hour in Green Cat cafe.

Eppler, George Trapp, of Buena Park, and Mrs. J. E. Paul, president of Orange County Garden club.

In advance of Eppler's talk on dahlia culture, winners in the flower show were announced by G. W. Leive. First place in the best basket of display dahlias went to Mrs. Orlyn Robertson, with Dr. Raft placing second. Mrs. Clyde Horton took first and Mrs. George S. Smith, second for the best baskets of pompon dahlias; Mrs. Raft and Mrs. Robertson took first and second places in the division of best single decorative or cactus varieties; Mrs. J. G. Robertson's display of seedlings won in that division, and two prizes for honorable mention went to Mrs. Robertson and Dr. Raft. Mrs. Robertson placed first and Mrs. Raft second in the best three.

During the talk on dahlia culture by Eppler, whose dahlia gardens at Bellflower form one of the Southland's show places, many points in culture of the plants, care of the tubers, and proper watering and fertilizing were given. Information regarding the planting season was of special interest. Eppler advocating a date as late as

Santa Anan Returns From Two Months In East

Mrs. S. A. Jones, 2327 Benton Way, returned yesterday morning from the east, where she had been since late July when she went to St. Cloud, Minn., to attend the marriage of her son, Edwin H. Jones and Miss Mae Anderson.

The ceremony uniting the young couple in marriage took place July 25. Mr. Jones is well known in this city, where he was graduated from Polytechnic high school and attended junior college, later receiving his degree from the University of Southern California. He is head of the Jones' Monumental Works in St. Cloud.

After attending the wedding, Mrs. S. A. Jones went to Lebanon, Ohio for a class reunion of alumni of National Normal University, which school is no longer in existence. She spent some time visiting with friends in Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. Jones arrived home just in time to bid farewell to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Jones of Los Angeles, who left yesterday for San Francisco to establish their home. Mr. Jones, who has been with the Pacific Fruit and Produce company for the past few years, has been transferred to the Bay City. He too attended Santa Ana High school and junior college.

Host Quartet Has Informal Dinner Event

Had it been possible for guests at an al fresco dinner last night in Irvine park, to award the cordón bleu they certainly would have hastened to decorate their hosts, Charles V. Davis and James Harding. For steaks prepared by the two to augment the dinner menu planned by Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Davis, were broiled to a juicy perfection on the popular park grills.

Dinner was served to the merry group surrounding a table where the pottery dinner service was no less vivid than the autumnal colors in surrounding hills and trees. The cheerful blaze of nearby fires, the full moon shining through liveoak and sycamores and the geniality of the hosts made an evening long to be remembered.

But the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Harding and Mr. and Mrs. Davis did not cease with the conclusion of the dinner hour. For with their guests they returned to Davis home, 1615 North Broadway, where tables were in readiness for contract play.

Men of the party, fortified perhaps by the toothsome steaks they had consumed, showed their proficiency in bridge play, and walked off with the majority of table prizes provided. Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon and Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer upheld the banners for feminine players, but the remaining three prizes were captured by Messrs. A. G. Flagg, Irwin F. Landis and R. C. Holles.

To this family circle were added several close relatives and friends, Messmes. H. T. Dunn, Marguerite Borgmeyer, Ralph Mosher and Sara Johnston Haddon, all of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Rowland P. Yeagle, Lieut. Com. and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Messrs. and Messmes. Howard Timmons, Ray Chandler, A. G. Flagg, A. J. Cruickshank, R. C. Holles, Clare Johnson and Wade Warner.

Tournament Tonight

Play starts tonight in what promises to be the largest contract bridge tournament of its kind in the Southland. When the first hand is dealt at the Royal Palms hotel, Los Angeles, in the second running of the Southern California Commercial team-of-four championship, all records in this class of event will be exceeded, according to the Pacific Bridge League, sponsors of the classic.

Last year's winners, the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power team, who led 25 foursomes to the wire, will defend their title against teams from many of the largest business houses in the southwest.

Willard Courtney, 1605 Louise street, returned Wednesday night from a trip to Detroit where he took delivery on a new car. He came home via the southern route.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mansur of Hemet are guests today in the home of Mrs. W. G. Lewis, 1916 North Flower street.

ALLEY TALKS ON WAR AND PEACE DIAN L. GARDNER, MISS WRIGHT WED

ORANGE, Oct. 1.—The third Orange County forum was held at the Orange Union High school last night, with Lieut. Alden G. Alley, of New York City, as the speaker. C. H. Robinson introduced the speaker, who discussed "Who Are the War Makers?" Over 400 were present.

The real war makers are the average man and average woman who are drawn into war because they have not learned to adopt methods of keeping out of it, said the speaker. Alley declared that the average person is more interested in the activities of fan dancers than in the problems of peace and war.

"Few of our disasters are deliberately plotted against us but come about because we have not adopted concerted effort to avoid them and because no effective desires are developed among the common people for peace," Alley said. He named as cause of war certain characteristics which people of all nations exhibit, intense internationalism, and a belief held by people of all countries that their country is superior to all others.

In speaking of munition makers, Alley said they alone can do nothing to cause wars but congressmen are subject to munition lobbies and this reverts back to the people who must select congressmen with care, stated Alley. The topic next Wednesday to be discussed by the same speaker will be "Can America Live Alone?"

ORANGE, Oct. 1.—Dian L. Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dian R. Gardner, Taft avenue, was married yesterday in Hollywood to Miss Lucille Wright, of Beverly Hills. The ceremony was performed at the Episcopal church of St. Mary of the Angels on Foley street. The bride was attended by Mrs. John Hazard, of Ventura, while William Roessler, of Los Angeles, was best man.

Mr. Gardner has accepted a position as geologist for the Marsman Mining company with headquarters at Minna with mining interests in many parts of the Orient.

POLICE GET THANKS
WOBURN, Mass.—(UPI)—Here's one time Frank Gustin was glad a policeman stopped him. He had started for Grand Rapids, Mich., by automobile and unknowingly left his baggage behind. Police were notified and asked to head him off. They radioed Lexington police a few miles distant, and in a few minutes Gustin had intercepted the message.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

The Artist Queen

FOR 46 years, Queen Wilhelmina has ruled the Netherlands. Now, at the age of 56, it is reported, the world's only reigning queen has made up her mind to abdicate in favor of her daughter.

She will give up her throne to Princess Juliana, who has just become engaged to Prince Bernhard zu Lippe-Biesterfeld of Germany.

Since 1890, when she was 10, Queen Wilhelmina has been the idol of her people. Much of her income of $5,000,000 a year, from her Dutch East Indies interests, has been turned over to her country's charities. She herself has found amusement in water color painting, in reading all sorts of books about her own lands, and in taking special interest in the government of the country.

Next to Queen Victoria, the ruler of the Netherlands has been pictured on more types of stamps than any other ruler in the world. The stamp shown here is one of a set issued in 1923, on the 25th anniversary of her actual accession to the throne in 1898.

LA HABRA, Oct. 1.—The gold and yellow colors of autumn were carried out at a bridge luncheon Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. H. T. Shannon, of Whittier boulevard, was hostess to 39 of her friends at the Hacienda Country club. Dahlias in the yellow shades in low cream colored pottery bowls were used on the luncheon tables where places were marked for the guests with handsome autumn leaves.

Brown nut cups further carried out the autumn theme and tallies were also in the autumn leaf motif.

Prizes which were awarded for the contract bridge games were wrapped in orange cellophane.

The program will include the following numbers: Naomi Stinson, soloist; John Tucker, trumpet solo; Norman and Donald Harding, trumpet duet; Ladie Letson, piano solo; Ila Jane Franklin, violin; Mrs. Joseph Thompson, vocal solo. The closing program number will be a presentation of "The Spanish Cavalier," by a group of young people, in costume. The public is invited.

WINTERSBURG, Oct. 1.—A program of Spanish musical numbers will be presented Friday evening when the Epworth league of the Wintersburg Methodist church serves a Spanish supper. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock at the church social hall, and the returns will go toward the conference and missionary apportionments of the month as last year, it was announced today by F. W. Case, city building inspector.

"A SILK HAT"

Roosevelt formally entered the Democratic campaign in his address at Syracuse before the Democratic State convention. He did not mention a word about the ten million people that were still unemployed by private enterprise. To our mind, this and the fact that other millions are working for less than they should, is the paramount issue before the American people.

He contends that, in 1933, they attacked the cause of unemployment and unrest. He failed to say what the primary cause was. Of course, the cause of the unrest was unemployment and a rapid decline in prices. He did not, however, say why prices were rapidly declining and why the unemployment. That was the primary cause of the unrest. He does not discuss these in any way.

He uses an illustration to the effect that a nice old gentleman, in 1933, wearing a silk hat, fell off the end of a pier; that a friend ran down to the pier, dived overboard and pulled him out but the silk hat floated off with the tide. The old gentleman had been rescued and he was effusive in his thanks. He praised his friend for saving his life. Today, three years later, the old gentleman is berating his friend because the silk hat was lost.

In the first place, it is Roosevelt's opinion that the United States government was going to pieces and that he, as head of the Democratic party, saved it. The world over, all the major nations have recovered more rapidly than we have with Roosevelt admitting that he is our "savior."

It seems to us that as the old gentleman finds that, after three years, the friend who claims he saved him is doing more than taking from him his silk hat which is really of no importance.

It seems the friend insists on taking from the "old gentleman" the most precious thing he has. The old man insists that he should still have the right to retain his freedom, his right to use his own initiative. He strenuously objects to being under the domination and direction and control of his savior. He finds it is extremely distasteful to have his friend, the savior, telling him that forever afterwards he knows nothing, is capable of doing nothing, must be guarded, protected and do only what his savior tells him he can do. Especially is this coercion distasteful from a man who never soiled his hands with honest toil. In addition, the "old gentleman" objects to the friend using every possible means, fair or unfair, to perpetuate the friend's domination and control.

So, it is not the silk hat that the old gentleman is protesting the loss of but it is the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The old gentleman sees as he observes and reads history that life is of not much value—if he be a farmer, if he cannot raise six bushels of potatoes without the consent of his savior; if he be a working man, if he cannot work for the man who will pay him the most wages, without the consent of his savior; if he be employer, if he cannot be associated with people who have the same idea of right and wrong as the employer does, without the consent of the savior. It is this lack of liberty, that the savior has abrogated to him as a reward for what the savior contends he did for the old gentleman, that is most strenuously objected to.

Roosevelt evidently thinks that losing these liberties is of no consequence. It certainly shows the attitude of the President when he compares regimentation, coercion and lack of respect for private rights to a silk hat. They might be of no importance to him but they are of importance to every American.

We know now what the President regards as important. Liberty and freedom are of no more value than an old silk hat. That is not the way America became what she was, until the reformers and meddlers, a quarter of a century ago, interfered with the natural division of labor and the rights and liberty of people by the shackling laws of the Federal Reserve Act, giving banks the right to more liberally counterfeited money, the Clayton Amendment, giving groups the right to combine for monopolies and the income tax law, taxing a man because he rapidly added to the national wealth.

These are the fundamental causes of unemployment. Judging from Roosevelt's speech, he does not seem to recognize any one of them. He is determined to eliminate the difference in standard of living. It can be done. He can make everybody wallow in the dirt, he can make everybody poor, but he cannot make everybody rich. The only way to eliminate the difference in standard of living, until we change the nature of human beings, is to make everybody poor. If that gives him joy, happiness, worthy honor and respect, he should have lots of it.

TOY PISTOLS A MENACE?

The nation-wide campaign to keep children from playing with toy pistols, launched recently by the American Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations, has failed to strike a responsive chord in the breast of Judge Joseph B. Lindsley of Spokane, Wash., who has handled hundreds of juvenile delinquency cases.

The judge fails to see that letting a youngster play with toy guns is in the slightest degree likely to turn him into a bandit when he grows up.

"The spirit of adventure is born into boys," says the judge. "They want to read 'Daniel Boone' and other stories of adventure. Then they want toy guns—and, as they grow older, they should have firearms and be taught to use them."

"A man who is following criminal tendencies doesn't need a gun. Nowadays bands use a sandbag or a piece of gas pipe as effectively as they do guns."

There is good deal of sense in the judge's remarks. The youngster who is going to turn out to be a bad egg needs something more than a 10-cent-store pistol to set his feet in the path of crime.

NEW REGULATION STARTS THIS WEEK

The Walsh-Healy Act went into effect Monday of this week. The bill was just passed in the closing hours of Congress. The Act requires holders of government contracts in excess of $10,000 to pay prevailing wage rates and prohibits them working employees more than forty hours a week without overtime pay.

Why the men, who produce something for the government, should secure more pay or better conditions than the men who make shoes or produce a bottle of milk for the working man, is more than we can comprehend.

However, the more the government and society try to regulate wages, the fewer private jobs there are to regulate.

The kind of men we elect to Congress are so conceited and so filled with vanity and so righteous that they pay no attention to the lessons of history. They contend that things are different now; that human nature is different. Possibly, most of them never even read what the great historian, Thomas B. Macaulay wrote.

He said, "Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the people by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties—by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment—by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law and by observing strict economy in every department of the state. Let the government do this; the people will assuredly do the rest."

The congressmen, who voted for the Walsh-Healy Bill, certainly believe Macaulay was wrong.

THE HUMAN RACE VERY POOR

When the head of our nation says, "our industrial plant is built," a statement made by Prof. Lionel Robbins in his book, "The Great Depression," becomes a matter of interest. He said:

"* * * It does seem pertinent to observe that the majority of the human race are still very poor and that if, in the interests of a supposed stability, a halt is to be called in the process of raising real incomes, it is an issue which should be squarely presented to those who are most affected by it. It is all very well for the dilettante economists of wealthy universities, their tables groaning beneath a sufficiency of the good things of this world, their garages furnished with private means of transport, to say, 'Food is cheap enough. Charabancs are vulgar. The railways are admirable. We have enough of plenty. Let us safeguard security.' It is for the millions to whom a slice of bacon more or less, or a bus ride to the sea, still matter, to make the decision. It is not so certain that, if the issue were clearly and honestly explained to them, they would choose the maintenance of existing capital values. For as yet the issue has not been put either honestly or clearly."

Professor Robbins is right but it is an exceedingly difficult proposition to get, in a Democratic form of government, the great masses of people to whom a "strip of bacon more or less" means a better life, to intelligently understand that our industrial plant is far from being built, when so many of our brain trusters and men who claim to be such great friends of the common man devote practically all of their time explaining that this is a land of plenty and that the poor are only poor because of the selfishness and meanness of the "economic royalists."

MEASURING A DOLLAR

The real measurement of a dollar, in the final analysis, is the amount of things it will buy—the pounds of round steak, the pecks of potatoes, pairs of shoes or suits of clothes. A fixed amount of insurance will not be, in the final analysis, social security unless the dollar actually buys something in proportion to what it buys when it is deducted from the payrolls of the workers.

There are those who believe that there can be no dollar with relatively uniform purchasing power, as long as people believe that wages can be artificial and on a wish and not competitive basis. Invariably, under such conditions, the promises and obligations exceed the original dollar value and the only solution is a constantly changing dollar. If we violate one law, we must correct it by another adjustment.

Economic laws cannot be violated any more than mathematical laws. We only get ourselves into trouble when we try it.

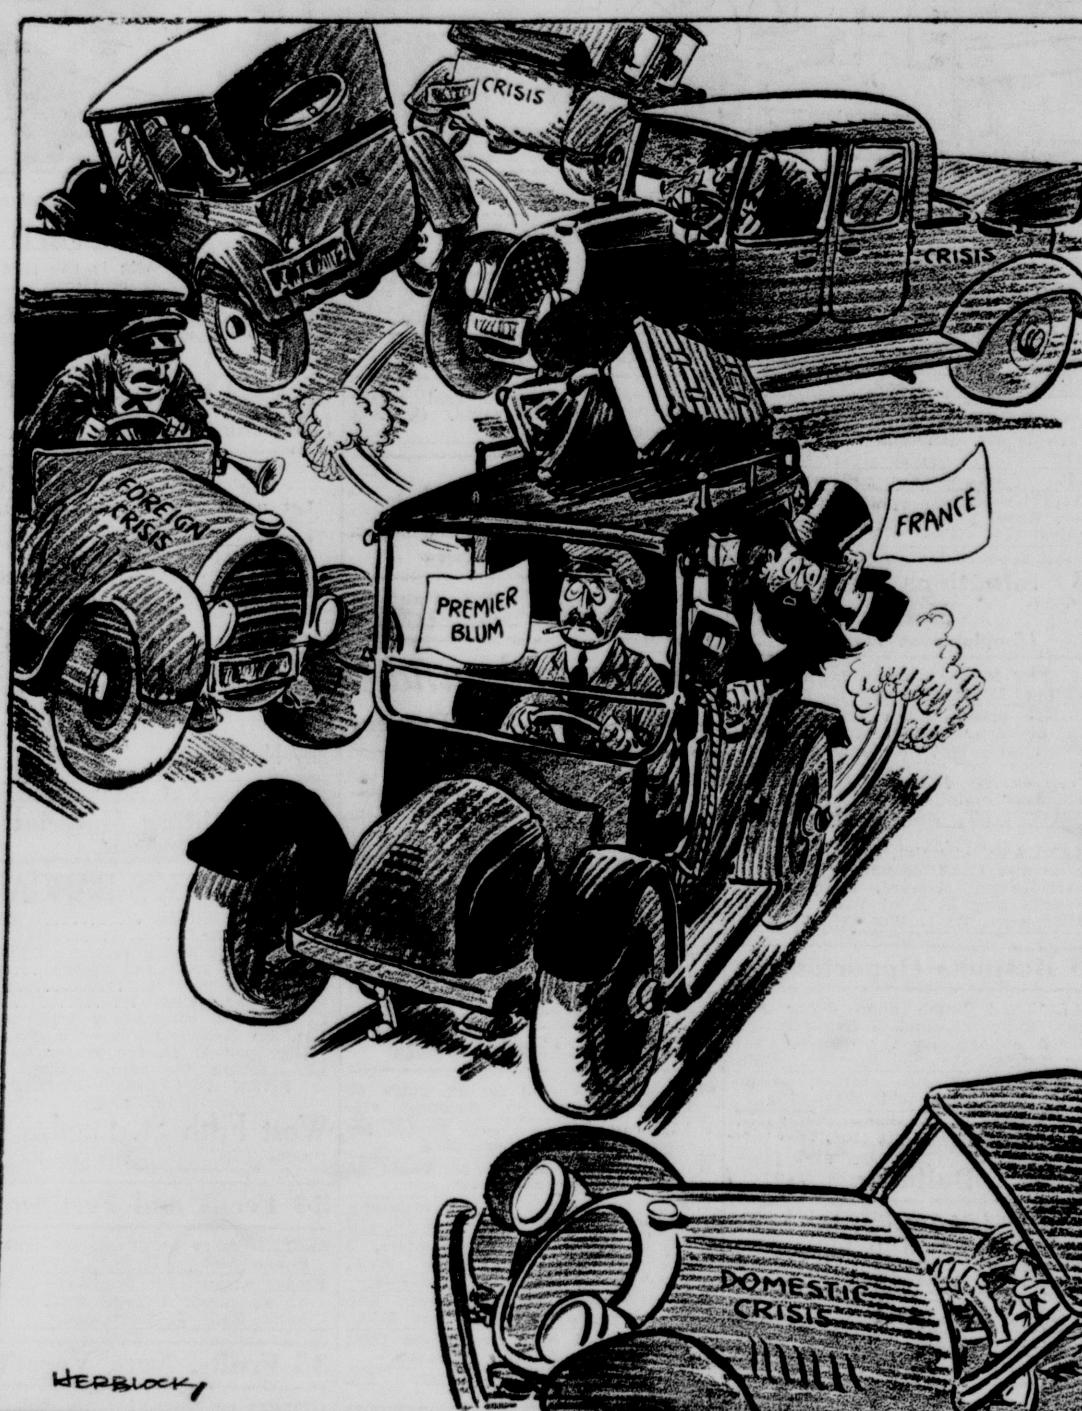

"NEVER WON A CONFERENCE"

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's anxiety about stabilizing the pound and the franc, without regard to whether the dollar is redeemable in actual value or not, reminds one of the penetrating remarks made by Will Rogers. He said, "America never lost a war, but never won a conference."

If the American people are foolish enough to start to regulate the values of European monies, it will be another case of what Will Rogers said, "We never won a conference." It will cost us a plenty.

If you have no friend, while ten thousand men and women nod to you and greet you in parlors, seek a friend as your most earnest worldly pursuit, and beg a friend in your prayers to heaven. —Amos R. Wells.

In Paris It's An Art

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1—Somewhere, sometimes, in those quiet hours of soliloquy when New Deal strategists figure out why they think the election is "in the bag," there must come moments of inner conflict, when the idealism of the New Deal comes face to face with the painful truth—namely, that if President Roosevelt is elected he will owe his election in no small part to the political bosses of the Democratic party and their powerful machines.

In Kansas City we find the Pendergast machine. Together with its henchmen in the St. Louis organization, it will make Missouri go for Roosevelt by 150,000 unless the rural districts and unbossed communities rise in revolt, of which there are hardly any signs at present.

In other states we find dominant machines which roll up a big city vote by machine methods and carry the electoral vote. If ever there was an argument for an amendment to the federal constitution to abolish the electoral college system and elect a president by popular vote, it is to be found this year in the lineup of the Democratic machines in various parts of the country.

With a national chairman like Jim Farley who understands the bosses and knows how to bring them into line, the political map of the United States looks like this:

Dominant Electoral State. Boss. Vote
Mo. Kansas City Pendergast 15
Ill. Chicago Kelly-Nash 23
Mass. Boston Curley 17
Md. Baltimore Jackson 8
N. Y. N.Y. City Dooley Tam. 47
Penn. Phil-Pitts. Guffey 16
Jersey City Hague 16
Total 168

By adding the above 168 to the solid south of 105, you have 273 votes and it is necessary to have only 266 electoral votes to elect a president of the United States.

There are, of course, a host of smaller bosses in other Democratic states and cities. Something like 33 states have Democratic governors and dozens of cities have Democratic mayors, which gives the political machine a chance to sprout.

Now it is not accurate to say that the above blot of 168 electoral votes in states where big Democratic machines exist are in the bag for the New Deal. Thus the fight against Curley in Massachusetts is hurting Roosevelt's chances there. But the battle is between the machine-controlled cities where the bosses dominate and the rural areas and small towns where there is an unbossed chance.

If Mr. Roosevelt wins these states it will be to no small extent because the machines have succeeded in regaining enough votes on behalf of the ticket to swing the electoral vote. Many of these bosses are by no means in personal sympathy with the New Deal, but the Roosevelt Policies have furnished them with splendid opportunities for the exercise of local political influence as, for instance, through WPA and relief and through public works projects in which they or their friends have participated.

Not all of these machines are alike, either in their purposes or in their methods. Some are less objectionable than others. Writing in the St. Louis Post Dispatch, a Democratic paper, Marquis W. Childs says of the Kansas City-St. Louis machine:

"Missouri's Pendergast is in the tradition of the nineteenth century bosses. A former saloon-keeper, he looks like a picture of the masters of Old Tammany, short, thick, in his late '50's, with fierce blue eyes. His word in Missouri is absolute."

"Kansas City is his kingdom. It is a wide-open town with gambling, organized prostitution, and slot machines existing at the surface of the political organization. A close friend of Farley, Pendergast is loyal to the administration although privately he resents the New Deal."

Pendergast has his allies in St. Louis. Of Mr. Roosevelt's Missouri majority of 460,000 in 1932, these two cities furnished about 200,000 and, with Republicans going back into the fold in various parts of the state and a general impression that Missouri will be carried by Mr. Roosevelt by about 150,000 majority, it is easy to see how much of a determining factor the Pendergast machine and its affiliated organization in St. Louis become in achieving a victory for the New Deal.

Lately some big registration frauds have been uncovered in St. Louis and the scandal was so shocking that the Democratic governor had to dismiss the election board even though it was of Democratic creation. Nearly 45,000 names of a registration list in St. Louis could not be found at the addresses given. The cleanup has produced a wholesale effect in St. Louis, but here in Kansas City, where the registration is of unprecedented proportions and where the Kansas City Star cries out that it is "too high," no such cleanup has as yet occurred.

But even with unpadded registration lists, the powerful machine dominates because it has favors to dispense and because it has a get-out-the-vote machinery from house to house which is hard to beat unless the Republicans have the money to carry on an effective campaign in the unbossed areas and to get to the polls the people who don't want to see the bosses increase their power.

For awhile the New Deal was cold to the Pendergast machine, but, as the presidential election approached, differences were patched up and, therefore, Missouri can truly be said to be "in the bag," because, as goes St. Louis and Kansas City where Pendergast controls, so goes Missouri.

HERE AND THERE

An English "fashion novelty" consists of moccasins in green wool, made on the line of the old-fashioned elastic-side boots.

Insurance against twins, and even triplets, is becoming quite common in England.

I was sitting on my front steps by myself feeling bum and pop came up the street swinging his rolled up newspaper like somebody feeling swell, saying, "Why so 'dejected,' young fellow, things surely can't be as serious as your face."

Us fellows had a marathon race 3 times around the block and I got beet, I said, and pop said, "I'm not the runner I was at your age. I thank you were a champion runner, he said.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

NO TIME TO THINK

Phases of chaos and periods of emergency have grave perils called at their heart.

At the outset such times seem strangely to challenge leadership to fresh thinking.

But, in the end, such times exact talk and action at the expense of genuine thinking.

The other day, in the Atlantic, Walter Lippmann was describing the mood of "untroubled certainty" in which he faced affairs before the World War. Then the war came. And, with its coming, the certainty, not to say cocksureness, with which Lippman and many others faced affairs went aglimmering.

"For more than 20 years," Lippmann went on to say, "I have found myself writing about critical events with no better guide to their meaning than the hastily improvised generalizations of a rather bewildered man."

And then he said this illuminating thing which I take for a text today:

"Many a time I have wanted to stop talking and find out what I really believed."

Here, as I have insisted again and again in this column during these emergency years, is the grave peril of the time—in the wild confusion of counsel and the mad scramble to DO SOMETHING even if we have no sure notion of what we are
